Tongue Tied

Alliteration is a term that describes a literary stylistic device. Alliteration occurs when a series of words in a row have the same first consonant sound. For example, "Alice's aunt ate apples and acorns around August" or "Fred's friends fried Fritos for Friday's food" are both alliterative phrases. In the former, all the words start with the "a" sound, while in the later, the letter "f" takes precedence. Aside from tongue twisters, alliteration is also used in poems, song lyrics, and even store or brand names.
